Roland Reed at the Boston Museum.

Roland Reed will begin his twelfth annual engagement at the Boston Museum, Monday evening next, August 29th, and as has been his custom for a number of years will present a new play. This season the piece selected is an adaptation from the German by Sydney Rosenfeld, and called a "Distinguished Guest." Mr.
Rosenfeld, on his recent tour through Europe, saw the play in Vienna, where it has been running for nearly a year. In localizing it, for its scene is laid in the United States, Mr. Rosenfeld has retained all the original humor of the German version, and has of course added much on his own account. The play affords Mr. Reed the opportunity of appearing in a most unique role, a character entirely different from any he has ever enacted, and one which gives great scope for his well known ability as a comedian. The story is most interesting, and entertaining, and the complications provoke no end of laughter. The characters apart from that of Mr. Reed's are cleverly drawn and are of distinct types, and well fitted to his exceedingly strong company.

The charming actress, Miss Isadore
Rush, who has a host of admirers in this city, where she made her first appearance some eight years ago, has not been neglected by the author, and she will be seen in an exceedingly strong role. Miss Rush will still maintain her reputation as being the best dressed woman on the American stage. She has prepared some striking gowns which will please her host of friends. The play will be elaborately staged and the company includes some of the old favorites and a few new faces, among them being, Charles S.
Abbe, Sheridan Tupper, Frank A. Connor, Julian Reed, L. P. Hicks, James
Douglas, Mrs. Mary Myers, Aletha Luce, Mabel Florence. Mr. Reed's engagement is for two weeks only, and the comedy will be given two weeks. Matinees will be given Wednesday and Saturday and a special matinee on Monday, Sept.
5th, Labor Day.

Flower Show Abandoned.

At a special meeting of the Florists'
and Gardeners' Club, held on Tuesday evening, the members had to abandon the exhibition they were to hold in September for the school children and the public of Andover, as they had received so few entries. The Club feels sorry at having to take this step, and for those who really love gardening, the Club will give them a chance of exhibiting at the chrysanthemum show in November, which will be seen by the schedule that will be printed at an early date.

Obituary.

BENJAMIN G. GLEASON.

Benjamin G. Gleason, one of the best known citizens of Andover, died suddenly Monday morning at his home in West Andover, of neuralgia of the heart.
Mr. Gleason had appeared to be well
Saturday and was about the house Sunday, and not till Monday morning did he show signs of failing.

Deceased was born in Andover fifty-four years ago. He was educated in the public schools, at Phillips Academy and at Williams College. He graduated from Phillips in '63 and Williams in '66. He always took a high rank in his studies.
At Williams he was a member of the Chi Phi fraternity. He was in business in Pennsylvania for a few years and later worked in Lawrence. He finally returned to Andover, where he has since lived and piled his trade of masonry.

Besides a widow, he leaves one young daughter, Lottie K., and two sons, James, who is a messenger for the American Express Company, and Nesbit, who is local agent for the same company.

The funeral was held at the West Parish church Wednesday afternoon, at three o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. Frank R. Shipman of the Old South church. The bearers were Edward Burt, Frank Hardy, Edward F.
Abbott and James Gilling. Interment in the Episcopal cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM GLEDHILL.

The sad news of the death of Mrs.
William Gledhill in Chicago, reached her husband the first of the week. At his request the remains were forwarded to Andover and the funeral services were held here.

The death of Mrs. Gledhill is a particularly sad one. She had accompanied her husband west, for the benefit of his health. He recovered while she became so ill that it was deemed best not to bring her home until the fall. She gradually lost her strength until the end came.
She was well known and much loved by hosts of friends in town, who extend their sincere sympathy to the be-raved husband.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 at Christ church. Prof. E.
P. Gould of Philadelphia was in charge.
The floral offerings were beautiful. The bearers were Joseph Cole, James Groves-nor, Andrew McTernon and Moses Farnham. Burial was in the Episcopal cemtery.

FOSTER INVESTMENTS.

An error in regard to the parentage of Elizabeth Foster, the original Mother Goose, is noted on examination of the records of the family of mariners of Charlestown. She was the daughter of William of Charlestown, captain of the Dolphin, who was captured by the Turks with his young son Isaac, and held for two years—"long time ago." Isaac came back to graduate at Harvard and preach to the Christians at Hartford. We can claim the second husband of his widow, however, as "one of the Woodbridge line of ministers, and that is as near as we can get to the sonatress."

The Fosters of Andover did not seem to furnish seamen as far as I have gone. Once in a while we get a blacksmith, a tanner, and late in the line a school-master; but the bulk of the taxpayers here run the scale from yeomen, husbandman to gentleman deceased, without great variation. The line of William Foster are eminently qualified in the survey of lands, and this skill goes into the girls' descent. They seem to be employed in carrying chains all over New England, and it is rather difficult to sort out the pioneers and place them without error.

I have four John Fosters which have cost me much correspondence and study, partly on account of our tax list, which names John Junior and Senior, both in the North and South Parishes, then the arrangement is changed in the marriage records to the four in line. Deeds with wives attached give much information. I am indebted to the very valuable chart of the family line of the late Moses Foster, prepared by Mr. Foster who has reckoned our most accurate town clerk, and printed a few years ago by W. F. Draper. Perhaps when he undertook this work he found the same conundrums that puzzle us for there is much to fill out in his paper.

Of the children of Ephraim and Hanna (Eames), on the Boxford line, Hanna married Timothy Stiles of Boxford in 1701, and in 1794, nearly 100 years later, we get the Stiles estates transferred to our Deacon John Foster of the Pond District. Many of them have settled Wendell in Hampden Co., Sutton of Worcester Co., Marblehead, Amherst, N. H., Bridgewater, Maine. There are four left in the North Parish still and one has strayed into the Center here. Middleton history is well related by a Stiles. Jemima Foster married Ezekiel Ladd of an old Boxford line, while Ruth went off to start Brookfield with Jacob Abbott, in 1722. Someone has been good enough to send us the story of the settlement and that of Hardwick which was formed from it for our Library and the story of those who have come back to us from the two old towns is very interesting reading. It has always been a matter of wonder how our Parson and his delegate could go to Lancaster and ordain a man and get back in two days in those early times, when a trip down the Merrimack in a boat with the return on the swift electric takes the best of a day. The old saddle was not so tiresome, after all.

Ephraim Foster who married Abigail Poor of Newburyport lost his "little women" early but he saved from the unfortunate seven, Jemima whose backbone took him through Harvard at 19, and with Dorothy Dwight he began his career at Brookfield in 1744, his father dead the last six years, and his mother, the second wife of our uncle Nathaniel Frye, who helped more than one boy on to success. Abigail died while on a visit to her son five years later, and this lonesome man worked his way up to the Supreme Court bench, dying at 63 in 1779.

Two of his sons, Theodore and Dwight, became U. S. senators, and a grandson, who secured Lydia Stiles for his wife, sent another Dwight Foster to the Supreme Court in our own day. This seems to point to the advantage of a Foster union with a Poor, if there happened to be any stray bachelors of either tribe needing advice.

John Foster, who began the anxiety that those of that name have stirred up all along the line, married Rebecca Roe of a Boxford line. The Fosters owe much of their success in life to this very excellent place in which girls of the old fashioned kind are still raised. Her grown-up children were John who was killed by lightning before his aged father died, and Stephen. A second wife, Dorcas Hovey, saved none. John married Deborah Barker, and Stephen married Abigail Kimball, and the Pond District should have been named for either the Barker or the Foster families. They polished up the farms around the Pond, and did more to make that part of Andover beautiful than many of the more restless taxpayers. They went to war, took the paper money, came home and tucked it away in their chests, and picked up the hoe where they laid it down. While William's line suffered much from the contraction of values, these shrewd Boxford fellows held on and when they had saved a little, invested in land. Of the daughters of John and Debora, Jemima married William Foster of Boxford, Dorcas with Mark Averill and Debora with Paul, still represented by a very intelligent family of reading men and women in old Middleton. Judith was perhaps an old maid, a rare thing in the old Foster lines. William selected Mehitabel Fuller of Middleton, Ephraim married Sara and John took Dorcas of the well known family of Towne. John was a blacksmith, and seems to have been the owner of the shop, still in operation near the Centre, managed to-day by one of our Abbott Village boys, of a new race of Scotchmen. The Martin estate was near, and the shop had belonged to Uriah Holt deceased (Uriah set up housekeeping as early as 1725) and John had the shop in 1759. This old ghost of a deed recorded in 1803 after the death of John may show that the shop of its site is one of the oldest in Andover. John probably went over the line into Boxford before his early death, and his brother Ephraim followed. William and Mehitabel with four sons began to get crowded. Jacob and Ruth Kimball, with a maiden Debora Lathrop Foster, John and Lucy Hastings, called 4th at his marriage in 1803, and 3rd in the conveyance of 1806, seem to have money enough. Brother William of Londonderry sells this particular John and sister Sally, not otherwise named in the records of the town, the Lucy piece, so called, for $450, near Deacon Charles Foster's house. The Israel Foster who came down from Manchester to marry Hanna Lee in 1802 was perhaps the other son. The venerable William lived till 1829, and nothing tragic seems to disturb the long life, unless some financial straitsness which obliges him to mortgage his land in old age to his cousin Deacon John Foster yeoman, who made a collection of fine lots, may have worried him at the last. The newspapers of to-day give us very little of the real neighborhood cheer and adventure of the old shut-in Pond District, both sides the line. An auction, like that to take place shortly in the Ballardvale and West Districts (called a vendue in those days) would be something to stir the ancestors, and it will account for the inherited love of such occasions, sad because the sacred make shifts must be turned out to the cool handling and chaff of the sale. Leaving these to visit the Stephen line awhile, we find what you might call the representative line of Ephraim Foster in Andover. In that delightful border neighborhood where the Ladds, Woods, Pearls, Barkers, and I hope some Fosters still hang out the latchstring, Deacon John Foster, born 1759 and his wife Sally Ingalls helped widow Abigail care for her estate and paid the girls' dowries as they dropped off to new homes.

Brother Simeon the joiner, John, Nathan, and Daniel, all of Andover, whose father Stephen left to them and mother Abigail a large undivided estate, the house standing on lands bought of the late David Foster, divide about 1707. Old David, who married Elizabeth Abbott, Lydia Farnum and Judith Norton in succession during sixty odd years, only raised three girls, Mehitabel Andrews, Ruth Porter and Rebecca Johnston. By these heirs the estate was sold to the cousins of Stephen Foster line, and after the division, Deacon John begins to annex pretty much of all the eligible land in sight. It may be his neighbors needed money, and he had it to lend. (There is always one man in every community who knows how to do this easily for it is a gift. One conveyance has attached the witness of a boy of 16, who was born at the time his father was killed at Bunker Hill, William Haggett, Junior, for whom a search has long been kept. He married Mehitabel Pearl when he grew up and very likely was raised by Deacon John Foster. Phineas Tyler's estate goes to add the other side of the road on John's lands; Stephen Poor yields up the Marston Ferry land at Cochichewick Brook on a mortgage, and he crosses over into Methuen for more Swan estates, that are worth a pretty penny to-day, and so on till the busy brain stops planning in 1836. Mother Sally has the estate for life, the pew, the horseshed, where the old chase and sleigh have been run in for years. Large annuities and handsome legacies to the four children of James Kimball, two of whom, Walter Henry our Andover physician, and John Foster Kimball our Savings Bank cashier, and their kin, a fine gift to "Little Sara Jane," only child of son Stephen, with the rest to Isaac, Hanna, and Sally, will call to mind names and homes familiar to many elders of this generation that is passing. The wills of this period begin to give liberally to the American Board, the Education and Home Missionary Societies, and Deacon John shows his interest. I am so pleased to bury one John and feel sure I have laid the right man to sleep peacefully with his ancestors that I can forgive the other three, who are still laying out towns in Maine, planning to move into Andover Centre and start a leather business, and refuse to marry the girls who live next door but cross the town, as did Moses grandson, of this line of Stephen, to take Sara Baldwin of Billerica. Rebecca, wife of William Rannels of New Salem, N. H., Abigail with Phineas Barker, Eunice with Dr. Gould, and one maiden Elizabeth were added to these six sons of Stephen. I have not followed them out in detail as my study is limited. The estate of Nathan and Susanna (Barker) is an interesting story, combining the lands near the old Elm with the old lines of families long resident. Nathan was killed in Wilmington, thrown from his wagon, the wheel passing over him. None of the line have attained great age. David Foster married Ruth Peabody, and the chart, after naming David and Samuel, announces the marriage of Mehitabel to Thomas Stickney of Bradford, and the marriage of the elder Moses, with which this section of the line can fully close. The type of the best of the Foster lines is found in alert and untiring women like the late Mrs. Abraham Gould, and men of the integrity of our late Moses Foster, the best of whose life was within rather than on the surface. The elder Moses was a lieutenant in the trained militia of the last generation, a branch of the service that has won respect from our still concealed regulars to-day. Clarissa Foster married Hiram Berry of Andover, Mary Peabody married Charles Barnes of Leicester, and the lines unite in the marriage of Elizabeth Foster and Deacon John F. Kimball now resident in this Parish.

The well known record of Moses Foster, born 1821, his careful work in public service, the trust reposed in him in the care of estates, the good will from all classes felt for this unobtrusive sympathetic, and loyal spirit, who quietly went about his daily work, with a sense of humor that never became offensive, but which must have brightened the dull round of duties to which he was called, all this weight of character is with us yet and adds new honor to an old and venerable family.

C. H. A.

About one month ago my child, which is fifteen months old, had an attack of diarrhoea accompanied by vomiting. I gave it such remedies as are usually given in such cases, but as nothing gave relief, we sent for a physician and it was under his care for a week. At this time the child had been sick for about ten days and was having about twenty-five operations of the bowels every twelve hours, and we were convinced that unless it soon obtained relief it would not live. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was recommended, and I decided to try it. I soon noticed a change for the better; by its continued use a complete cure was brought about and it is now perfectly healthy.—C. L. Boggs, Stumpston, Gilmer Co., W. Key West, Fla., Aug. 24.—Distressing reports continue to reach here from Havana.

Passengers arriving this morning by steamer George W. Childs say the suffering among the poorer classes is appalling. Organized bands of beggars roam through the city in every direction, seeking food, and pinched faces are met with everywhere. Mobs gather daily around the free kitchens, awaiting the distribution of cooked food, and after obtaining rations, return to the public parks and boulevards, where the stretch themselves on the benches and grass in all their wretchedness.

Thousands of unemployed gather at La Punta and other approaches opposite the Morro, at the entrance to the harbor, and wildly cheer every arriving American vessel, which they imagine brings food supplies for free distribution.

Those more fortunate, who either own or can hire a small boat, surround the vessels while they are at anchor beseeching to be given something to eat. The authorities are compelled to use force to keep them from going aboard the vessels.

The insurgent forces, which still keep under arms in Havana and Pinar del Rio provinces, are likewise suffering for food.

SUNSHINE NEEDED.

An Excess of Moisture In Southern Part of New England.

Boston, Aug. 25.—In Maine and parts of New Hampshire and Vermont the weather the past week was fairly good, permitting a renewal of farm work, harvesting, haying and plowing; but for the remainder of the district cloudy weather, with showers, and warm, sultry atmosphere predominated. The conditions were excellent for the progress of all crops, which have made rapid, and in many sections, phenomenal advancement. The excessive moisture and showers, where they prevailed, seriously delayed the grain harvest, thus resulting in some damage. Fruit, potatoes and vines suffered to some extent. Sunshine was deficient in all sections, and is needed.

Reports, without exception, are favorable to an excellent crop of corn, the only danger being an early frost. Sweet corn is reported a week in advance of the average season in Vermont, and in some sections the yield will be the largest in 10 years. Oats, barley and wheat are generally good crops.

There is still some grass to harvest in all sections of New England. The larger portion of it, however, is in the southern states, where the wet weather has delayed haying. Mowing meadows and rowen are generally reported in good condition. The latter, owing to the large crops of hay that has been secured, is not of the usual importance.

Fall apples of good quality are quite plentiful. The winter varieties, while improved, are dropping badly and will fall far short of an average crop. Grapes are uneven. Peaches continue to rot and are not promising. Plums will probably be a fair crop. Cranberries have been damaged by sun scald and by insects. The crop is rapidly maturing.

The cloudy, moist weather and showers have not been very favorable to vegetables. There is more complaint of rust and blight in potatoes than in preceding reports. Tomatoes and vines are being injured. Notwithstanding the general complaint there seems to be little apprehension of extensive damage.

Tobacco apparently continues in satisfactory condition. In some sections the harvest is well advanced, while in others it is just beginning.

Big Fire In New York.

New York, Aug. 25.—The explosion of an ammonia tank, used in the making of artificial ice, set fire at an early hour this morning to Jacob Hoffman's brewery, a 5-story brick structure. The flames spread rapidly, and the Central Bottling company's plant, of which A. Wolff is the proprietor, soon caught fire. Within a very short time the entire block surrounded by Third avenue, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth streets seemed to be doomed. The surrounding tenements, all filled with sleeping people, next ignited, and the bewildered tenants began to pour out into the streets by the hundreds.

At 2:30 a. m. the fire was under control. The loss is roughly estimated at $300,000. While there is no knowledge of loss of life it is not improbable that there were some fatalities. The night watchman could not be found, and it is believed that he may have been killed by the explosion.

Fall River Officer Killed.

Fall River, Aug. 24.—Officer Louis Gormley was shot accidentally and killed last evening by a brother officer, Frank Pierce. The two men, with Captain Edson, were chasing Thomas Stratton, for whom they had a warrant, charging him with non-support. Stratton ran into a field, with the two officers hard after him, while Edson went another way to head him off. All three of the officers had revolvers in their hands, and Captain Edson had already discharged his in the air.

Gormley was just ahead of Pierce, when he stumbled and fell. Pierce fell on top of him. On striking the ground, the revolver in Pierce's hand exploded, and the bullet passed through Gormley's body, near the heart. The unfortunate man lived about five minutes.

Gormley was 30 years of age, unmarried, and lived with his parents. Stratton escaped in the darkness.

Swept by a Furious Storm.

Utica, Aug. 25.—As the result of a furious storm which swept over the region north of Utica yesterday afternoon over $300,000 worth of damage was done to property. In Dearfield $10,000 damage was done to farm property, and every bridge on the highway east and west of the place was carried away by the swollen streams.

The Adirondack and Black River division of the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg railroad suffered severely from the cloudburst. In one place a washout 200 feet long occurred, while a railroad bridge near Trenton is reported to have been carried away. Between Remsen and Herkimer four bridges were carried away.

Hot In the Metropolis.

New York, Aug. 25.—It was the hottest Aug. 24 on record. The highest temperature at the office of the weather bureau was 88 degrees at 4 o'clock. The temperature at the street level was 96 degrees for more than an hour. Not until 8 o'clock did New York's sweltering millions receive a temporary respite, a light thunderstorm passing over the city. The highest temperature on Aug. 24 last year was 72 degrees and the preceding year, while the terrible heat plague was scouring New York, the highest was 76 degrees. Heat prostration slips began to pour into police headquarters early in the morning, and there was no letup until midnight. Horses fell in all parts of the city.

Helping a Bond Concern.

Lawrence, Aug. 25.—Owing to the fact that the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill Street Railway company has published notices to the effect that by Sept. 15 every employee shall file a bond of $300, the expense of the same to be borne by the men, it has leaked out that the men, 100 in number, have threatened to strike. The men claim an injustice has been done them, and that they have been given to understand that failure to file a bond is equal to discharge. The only bond allowed is that of a Baltimore concern.

A Terrible Disaster.

London, Aug. 25.—A dispatch from Vienna to The News says that 300 miners were drowned by the flooding of the Kasimir coal mine at Niconce, Silesia, three days ago.

GOOD COOKERY

GOOD COOKERY,
Dorchester, Mass.

(Copyright.)

My Dear Kate:

Again I have a letter from my French correspondent, and this time he hits the very topic you wrote me about, and gives us a little lecture on eggs and their preparation. You will get a few hints, I am sure, by a careful perusal of his epistle.

Culinarily yours,
Comfort Jones,
Doctor of Cooking.

Dear Doctor:

In the different letters I have written you I have said nothing about the one thing that is always in your house and always seasonal, and that is the egg. Nothing that goes on to your table should be as fresh as the egg, because nothing is worse than a stale one. Under certain conditions an egg may be kept comparatively fresh for some days, but generally speaking, to be at its best should never be more than three days old.

It is a peculiar fact that while the ways of cooking eggs are legion, still in many families eggs are seldom on the table, except when in cakes or pies, in any other form than boiled or fried. Let us glance at a few other ways of preparing, none of which are difficult and all delicious.

Try this recipe for breakfast or lunch. Take a dozen eggs and boil them till hard; take off the shells, cut the eggs in halves and rub the yolks through a fine sieve; put an ounce of butter and a cupful of cream into a saucepan, season with salt and pepper, thicken with a little flour or corn starch. When quite hot, but not boiling, stir into it half of the whites of the eggs, chopped, and the yolks. Arrange the remainder of the whites on a dish, pour the mixture over them and serve hot.

There are some beauties about this recipe that you will not appreciate at first, as for instance, you can boil the eggs the day before, and also prepare them ready for the cream, if you desire, and then you have little to do to prepare your morning meal. Again, if you desire a more savory dish, you can easily have it by adding a little minced ham, a little onion juice, or some minced olives and a few mushrooms. This makes a fine luncheon dish when prepared in the latter way.

Here is another you will like. Put a half pint of cream into a saucepan and let it come to a boil; stir into it a half dozen eggs well beaten and seasoned with salt and pepper. Four the mixture into a hot pan, brown it quickly and serve with chopped parsley. It is delicious.

A particularly tasty dish of eggs is made in this way: Fry two small minced onions in butter until brown, then mix with them a dessertspoonful of vinegar, a little salt and pepper. Butter a dish, spread the onions over it, break over them a half dozen eggs and put into a hot oven. When the eggs are cooked to your taste, cover them with bread crumbs that have been fried in butter and still hot and serve. This is a great luncheon dish.

Another of a different character may please you even better for lunch, and I will send it along. Take some thin slices of bread, trim off the crusts, lay them on a well buttered dish and cover with thin slices of rich, but mild, cheese. Beat up enough eggs to cover the bread, season with salt and a little cayenne pepper, and pour over the slices. Put the dish in a moderate oven and bake till the eggs are set. Serve while very hot and from the same dish. You may use grated Parmesan cheese sprinkled over the sliced bread if you prefer.

There is one more luncheon recipe that I want you to try, because it may also be served as entree at dinner. Have a pint of rich tomato puree and cook in it half a dozen well beaten eggs; pour the whole into a deep dish and serve with it bread croutons.

I am sure some one of the above will make friends for me among your many friends.
Sincerely yours,
LOUIS ROIE.

FARINA BALLS.

Scald two cupfuls of milk, add gradually one-half cupful of farina, one-quarter cupful of sugar, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cook twenty minutes and add one beaten egg. Cool the mixture, shape in balls, add bread crumbs, eggs, and again in crumbs, lay in deep fat, and drain on brown paper. Serve with currant jelly.

CABBAGE SALAD.

Cut the cabbage very fine and put into a dish in layers sprinkled with salt and pepper. Mix together two teaspoonfuls of butter, two of sugar, two of flour, two of mustard, one cupful of vinegar and one egg, and allow it to come to a boil. Pour it hot over the cabbage and mix well. Cover up.

CREAM TARTLETS.

Make a paste with the white of one and the yolks of three eggs, one ounce of sugar, one ounce of butter, a pinch of salt and flour sufficient to make into a paste; work it lightly; roll out to the thickness of a quarter of an inch, line some pattypans with it, and fill with uncooked rice. Bake in a moderate oven. When done remove the rice and fill the shells with jam or preserves and place a spoonful of whipped cream on top.

SAVOY BISCUITS.

Take twelve eggs, their weight in powdered sugar, and half their weight in flour; beat up the yolks with the sugar, adding a little grated lemon peel and orange flower water; whip the whites separately into a stiff froth; mix with the other, then stir in the flour and beat the whole together; butter a mold, and put in the mixture, and bake in a moderately hot oven. These biscuits are very light and delicate.

ROAST SWEETBREAD AND PEAS.

Wash the sweetbreads, drop into boiling water, cook 15 minutes, then plunge into ice cold water and allow them to remain half an hour. Wipe dry, roll in beaten eggs, then in cracker crumbs; lay in a dripping pan, pour around them half a cupful of boiling water in which has been melted a teaspoonful of butter; cover and bake half an hour, basting several times. Remove cover and brown. Boil some green peas, season with butter, pepper and salt, heap on a hot dish and lay the sweetbreads around them.

YANKEE PLUM PUDDING.

Take a pudding boiler which has a tight cover and butter it well. Put at the bottom some stoned raisins and then a layer of bread cut in slices and some butter or suet. Repeat until the tin is nearly full. Take milk enough to fill the boiler and to every quart add three or four eggs, some nutmeg and salt and sweeten with half sugar and half molasses. Cover tight, drop into boiling water and cook three or four hours.

STUFFED STEAK.

Take a round steak and spread with a stuffing made as for turkey. Roll it up and tie it, and roast from half to three-quarters of an hour.

LUNCHEONS FOR THE PICNICER, BICYCLER, TRAVELER.

To Carry to the Office and to Work.
Tomato and Cucumber Sandwiches.— Twelve Shredded Wheat Biscuits, four medium size tomatoes, two cucumbers, French Dressing, No. 2. Recipe No. 204, Vital Question.

Remove skin from tomatoes and cucumbers, cut into dice, mix together and turn over them the French dressing, stirring it in well. Set in a cool place until thoroughly cold. Split the biscuit, dip the inside of the halves very quickly in cold water, taking care not to wet the outside at all. Place the halves together, put in a pan in oven until hot. Separate the halves, and with a knife first dipped in hot water, lay thin slices of good butter on the inside of the halves. Put a layer of the prepared tomato and cucumber on the bottom half, place the top half on end and sides, and if these sandwiches are to be taken to a picnic, wrap in tissue paper.

Fish Sandwiches.—One can salmon, yolks 12 hard-boiled eggs, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, two tablespoons lemon juice, two tablespoons chopped parsley, bottled salad dressing (recipe No. 202, Vital Question), 15 Shredded Wheat Biscuits.
Drain off from salmon, remove skin and bones and mash fine with a silver fork. Put the yolks of the eggs through a potato ricer, add to the fish with the salt and paprika, lemon juice and parsley. Mix thoroughly and add ½ cup of the bottled dressing to make a smooth, soft mixture. Split the biscuit, remove some of the inside shreds, heat thoroughly in the oven and with a knife first dipped in hot water, lay thin slices of good butter on the insides of the halves. Then put ½ inch layer of the prepared fish on the bottom half; put the top half on end, press lightly together, smooth ends and sides. Wrap in tissue paper if for a picnic.

When the Hat Talks.

"No man—that is, no man of any character, mental strength or purpose in life—ever puts his hat on in the same way for every occasion," writes Robert J. Burdette of "Tongueless Liars" in The Ladies' Home Journal. "He makes it speak a varied language—a perfect polyglot of a hat. It not only interprets characters, but moods. It is eloquent as music. A man can train it to say anything. He applauds and defies, cajoles and threatens with it by his manner of wearing it. I once saw a preacher—and a better man it would be hard to find—put on his hat one day at an association before he got half way to the door. And if he had said ever so softly with his eloquent lips what he yelled with that hat they would have cast him out of the synagogue into utter darkness and condemnation."

The Mexican Cook.

A good Mexican cook relieves the mistress of the house of worry and responsibility in a manner that is almost unknown in the United States. The cook is given so much a day, and with this amount she will purchase each morning all the provisions for the day, including even the staples that are usually bought in large quantities in other countries. On $1 a day a cook will provide a very good table for a family of three or four and get enough beans and tortillas and chile to set the servants' table besides. They can really do better than their mistresses, because they can usually drive sharper bargains with the marketmen of their own class, and they have more patience to haggle over the last penny.—Modern Mexico.

Federal Transports to Run.

Washington, Aug. 25.—Assistant Secretary Melickjohn of the war department contemplates the establishment of a line of transports from New York to Havana, Santiago and Ponce. It is expected that the new route will be ready for operation in two weeks. Havana will not be on the route at present, but as soon as that port is open the line will touch there. Operations would begin at once, but the transports are now being used for carrying troops. The line will be utilized for transporting supplies of the quartermaster's, commissary, and surgeon general's departments, as well as such other freights as may be needed at the points occupied by the United States forces. Mails will be carried also by these transports to and from the new American possessions. New York instead of Tampa has been selected because of the severe quarantine at Tampa against yellow fever.

A Deserved Tribute.

The Congregationalist pays a merited tribute to Andover's famous school and its principal, Dr. Bancroft, in the following:

"One hundred and twenty years ago a school was opened in a carpenter's shop in Andover, Mass., founded by Samuel Phillips, with Eliphalet Pearson as its first master. It soon gained a national reputation. Among its earliest pupils were boys of the Washington and Lee families of Virginia. Its fame was already great when Dr. Samuel Taylor began his principality there which continued for thirty-eight years.

Not long after Dr. Taylor's death, in 1873, Dr. C. F. P. Bancroft became the head of the school. A New Englander by birth and training, a graduate of Dartmouth in 1860, and of Andover Seminary in 1865, after some years' experience as a teacher and a period of study in the University of Halle, Germany, he took up the work which he has carried on with increasing success for a quarter of a century.

In a paper read before the heads of schools of secondary education, in the first year of his principality in Andover, Dr. Bancroft speaks of the re-adjustment of secondary education to the needs of an expanding university life as a difficult problem. But in his review of the work of the last quarter of a century the problem is treated as one already solved or in full progress toward solution, and in the attainment of this result Phillips Academy and its honored principal have had no small part."

Two Comfort Makers.

Window screens and weather strips represent the exact opposites in comfort producing, but both are essentials at some time in the year. Just at present, screens have the lead to let cold in and keep flies out, but next December, weather strips will have an important mission in keeping cold out. A small adv. in another column calls attention to these two important things and to the fact that Ira Abbott, a well known Andover gentleman, can tell an interesting story about them.

Editorial Clinders.

The new catalogue of books for the Memorial Hall library, just issued from the Andover Press, is a book that will be gladly welcomed by users of the public library. It is a volume of generous proportions, and as such, shows that Andover's feast for readers is a well laid one, well selected, up-to-date, and now, thanks to the good work of Mrs. Bond, and her assistant, Miss Wiggins, it is easily accessible to the whole town.

Lightning is something that seems to play its own sweet will without any particular governing force to direct it. Its pranks during the past few days have been especially trying to people of weak nerves, and, in several cases, it has disturbed more tangible things than people's nerves.

The rebuilding of the South Broadway roadbed by the Lawrence street department has at last begun. This is a matter of even more importance to the ordinary Andover citizen than it is to the ordinary Lawrence citizen, and we may well rejoice accordingly. Lawrence is away behind her country neighbors in her highways.

When wear begins to exceed repair in our body you are going to fall sick. The signs of it are, loss of flesh, paleness, weakness, nervousness, etc. The repair needed is food. You think you eat enough, and yet you wear out more tissue, energy, nerve-force, than your food makes for you. The difficulty is that you do not digest enough. And this is so serious it is worth sitting down seriously to think about. If you can't digest what you eat, take a few doses of Shaker Digestive Cordial. The effect of it will be to increase your flesh and make you feel stronger. You won't fall sick. Proof that it is in control of your repair apparatus. It's easy enough to test this for yourself. Take a few bottles of Shaker Digestive Cordial. Sold by druggists at 10 cents to $1.00 per bottle.

STRUCK BY A CYCLONE

Storm Wrecks the Barn and House of Sarah Sawyer—Week of Storms and Excessive Heat.

The hot muggy weather which has prevailed this month and also a good portion of July and the severe storms which have prevailed will make the summer of '98 stand out as one of the most disagreeable seasons on record.

As a probable direct result of the long continued hot wave, one of the worst electrical storms ever known here, broke over the town Tuesday evening, resulting in great damage in various parts of the town. Before six o'clock, black, ominous clouds could be seen in the northwestern horizon, lighted by frequent flashes of lightning, followed by the dull roar of distant thunder.

Those who watched the coming storm saw the lightning flash lighter, the clouds grow darker and noticed the thunder sounded perceptibly nearer at each detonation, showing that the tempest was approaching at great velocity.

Soon after six o'clock, the storm burst in all its fury. Rain fell in blinding sheets, blown almost parallel with the ground by the powerful wind. Thick darkness set in and the lightning was most impressive, the whole heavens being illuminated by frequent flashes.

The worst havoc was created in the south part of the town. The barn belonging to Miss Sarah Sawyer on Prospect Hill was unroofed and one end blown off its foundation. Twenty-seven head of cattle were buried in the debris. Four cows were killed outright, and three injured. Twenty tons of hay in the barn were lost to the fury of the storm and most of it was ruined.

The cyclone left destruction in its path. Part of the roof of Miss Sawyer's house was blown off, and windows were shattered. A great many apple trees were destroyed.

The wind played many peculiar freaks. A pitchfork in the barn was carried two hundred feet. In one room in the house, the quilts were stripped from a bed and a trunk blown out through a door into another room.

The roof of the barn was carried many yards, and a hen house recently built, containing 40 hens was blown 100 feet.

Mr. Ordway, who boards at the Sawyer place, has just driven into the barn and unharnessed the horse when the storm struck. He received a stunning blow, and was knocked up against a fence in the yard. He said it was pitch dark for several minutes, during which time he could not even see the house a few yards away.

A wagon belonging to W. T. Sellers, which was standing in front of the house was badly damaged. Mr. Sellers' little girl reached the house just in time to escape the storm.

William Tucker's, also the sound of the crashing timbers when the barn was struck.

The Sawyer barn is located on the southwestern brow of Prospect hill, the highest elevation in Essex county. The barn is a large one built years ago, the frame being made of hewn oak timbers.

E. H. Berry, and a number of men from the neighborhood worked a good part of the night clearing away the debris. They attempted to ring in a fire alarm but it failed to work. Word was sent to the engine house and the hook and ladder truck was dispatched to the scene. The police were also notified and assisted in the work.

Miss Sawyer carried no insurance on her property. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars as the barn, seventy-five feet long will have to be rebuilt. Miss Sawyer takes her misfortune philosophically. The same spirit which made her farming venture successful animated her in the face of the loss of her many years of hard labor. Wednesday morning carpenters began the work of demolishing the barn, preparatory to the work of erecting a new structure.

Awings on the bank building were demolished, and a window in the hallway of the second floor of the building in which Chin Wing has his laundry was blown in and the glass in the hall door shattered. A tile from the steeple of the Baptist church was hurled to the ground. Limbs were torn from trees in the square and trees were blown over in all parts of the town.

The fire alarm wires crossed causing several strokes of the alarm to be sounded. Washouts caused by the storm a week ago were made larger Tuesday. Many dangerous places about town will receive the prompt attention of street commissioner Chandler.

The Heat and the Storms.

While the thermometer has not registered above the nineties at any time, the air has been so humid that the heat has been much harder to stand. For weeks at a time there has been little chance to get a breath of good clear fresh air with ozone enough in it to make it bracing.

The past week has been the worst one for dog day heat this summer. The air has been particularly sultry and people are beginning to say that they have never known so long a spell of such weather in Andover before.

Severe thunder storms have been frequent and Andover has had her share. One of the worst summer north-easters drenched the town last Friday. It rained in torrents nearly all day. The sewer contractors were not expecting such a storm at this time of year and were consequently unprepared for the cloudburst.

As a result the sewer was flooded, pipes broken and many washouts recorded. Stony brook has not been so high in years, if ever before in August, and during the height of the storm, the gutters were miniature rivers.

The New Directory.

Almost every business and professional man, farmer, and house-keeper, in Andover and North Andover will be interested in the new Directory for 1898-99. The book is substantially bound and contains the names of the citizens of Andover and North Andover, together with complete and properly classified business directories, street directories, churches and pastors, expresses, fire alarm, historic sites, public libraries, manufacturing statistics, places of interest, post-office information, lodges and societies, telegraph and telephone offices and other information constantly required by the townspeople of Andover, North Andover and Methuen and also of the city of Lawrence. The book contains over 250 pages and is styled the "Lawrence, Business and Suburban Directory." By such a combination the publishers are able to offer the book at the low price of $1.00 per copy.

MORE MONEY IS NEEDED.

For Work of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association in Saving Men at Montauk Point.

Henry L. Higginson, treasurer of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association has made public the following appeal for additional funds, which is self-explanatory.

"We of the Massachusetts Volunteer Aid Association promised the other day that when we needed more money we would ask for it. We now do ask for a considerable sum.

We have spent much more than we expected in preparing the hospital ship Bay State for actual service. She is now in the West Indies, where she will get sick men and bring them North and perform this work for many weeks still. We do not as yet know the cost of running her, but it will be a considerable sum, and meanwhile she is in fine condition and busy.

We have now a fresh duty on hand. So soon as the camp at Montauk was established, we prepared to send a diet kitchen, with cooks and fresh provisions, under the care of Dr. Prescott, in order to relieve the sick and wounded men in the hospitals and in order to feed the convalescents and half-sick men who are coming from Cuba.

We knew that prompt action would save a great deal of suffering and a great many valuable lives and we are doing the best in our power. We have established a boat service from New London to the wharf near Montauk Point.

We have sent six cooks and a number of physicians and sixteen nurses to that camp, together with carloads of provisions, and we have prepared ourselves to feed the sick and wounded from any State and also the regular troops. We obtained our permit from Secretary Alger to establish a diet kitchen on the condition that we should treat all sick men alike—the volunteers and the regulars.

In the zeal of the people to succor men of their own State, the United States regular troops, who have necessarily borne the brunt of the hard work and who have done fine service, are neglected. They are the real soldiers, well-trained, well-commanded by accomplished officers, and are our mainstay. They come from all the states and deserve the admiration and kind treatment of all citizens.

I, for one, wish to use our provisions at Montauk for them as well as for Massachusetts men and ask givers to approve of this wish, if they will. A friend has given us a boat for twenty days, which runs regularly from New London to Montauk Point.

All this is costing money and will cost a great deal more, but what is the cost in comparison with the sacrifices already made or the suffering and lives which we may save? We therefore appeal for generous gifts once again in order to accomplish this special work at Montauk.

The war is over, but the damage caused by the war is not repaired. We appeal urgently because now is the time of all times when we need to make our best efforts to heal the sick and to save many more men from being sick."

H. L. HIGGINSON.

One never tires of the County Fairs and though it is an old institution, there is something new and interesting in each year's show.

York County Fair at Saco, Me., stands in the front as a leading exhibition, and in every department you will find things that are seen nowhere else, for the managers are ever on the alert to secure attractions that are popular.

The racing will be up to date, for purses big enough to attract the best horses are offered. There will be the regular continuous stage performance besides the concerts and other sports.

Thanksgiving Peace Service.

Last Sunday evening a large congregation filled the South Church to give thanks for the return of peace. The Free, Baptist and Christ Churches joined in the service. Rev. F. A. Wilson, read the scripture lesson and Rev. F. Gould acting rector at Christ Church delivered the address. The service was made more attractive by music by the Andover orchestra. A male quartette also rendered two selections and T. F. Pratt sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" in a pleasing manner. A collection was taken on behalf of the Army Christian Commission, which amounted to $35.

His Ninetieth Birthday.

Yesterday was the ninetieth anniversary of the birth of Solomon Stevens of Salem, for many years a resident of Andover. Mr. Stevens was born in Winchester, Franklin county, Mass., Aug. 23, 1808. He is still hale and hearty and resides in a pretty cottage built by himself. He dates his English ancestry further back than the Revolution. His grandfather, Col. Amos Stearns, commanded a colonial regiment and fought in many of the famous battles of the war. His father, Amos Stevens, Jr., was too young to go to war, though the made every effort to go as his father's servant.

When he was two years of age Mr. Stevens' parents moved to Andover and he was educated in this town. At the age of nine years he was set to work on a farm, and five years later started to learn the tanning trade. A great many years ago he went to Salem to work at his trade and has ever since been identified with the tanning and currying interests of that section. He is the oldest of the Salem tanners.

Work on the Sewer.

Work on the new sewer this week has been retarded by the severe storms and excessive rain.

Friday's downpour flooded the Park, Main and Essex street sections and a bad washout on Essex street resulted. Men worked all Friday night to stop the flow of water from Stony brook into the sewer trenches. The pressure of the water was so strong that many times the rude dams constructed gave way.

The heat has also interfered with the work and altogether progress has been slow. The contractors have met conditions which they did not expect, but have accepted the inevitable, and will pursue the work with renewed vigor now that good weather has returned.

LETTERS FROM ABROAD

Mrs. Selah Merrill now at Jerusalem and Miss Maria H. Dow relate experiences.

The following is an extract from a letter from Mrs. Selah Merrill, at Jerusalem.

"The noise in the street on Sunday morning began vigorously as early as six o'clock.

The various church bells added to the general effect, since all but the Protestant churches hold early services. That reminds me that I saw a ridiculous statement in one of our papers to the effect that no bells had been allowed in the Holy City up to the present time, but that as a special concession to the German Emperor, the Sultan had permitted them to be placed in the new German church.

As a matter of fact, ever since I have known anything about Jerusalem, one has been deafened by the clanging of the Greek and Russian bells, of which there are many. The Latin Patriarchate has a fine chime, which they have had for years, as has other of the Catholic churches; and the Americans as well. Within a few years the English church has acquired a chime of sweet-toned bells, so when the German bells are struck, it will add a little more to the babel of bells.

The Glorious Fourth passed by very quietly. There was an informal reception at the Consulate for any American citizens who chose to pay their respects. All the other countries represented here—except, of course, the Spanish—had their flags flying in our honor, and several of the representatives called. There is a Quaker mission at Ramallah which has been in operation fifteen or twenty years. At first it was a joint affair of American and English Quakers, but nine years ago they separated; the Americans having full control of this mission and the English taking a similar school in Brumans, a village in the Lebanon. A Mr. H— of North Berwick, Me., has been here for the past two years enlarging the building, making a new cistern, and putting the mission premises and affairs upon a permanent basis. He has introduced various conveniences, such as a wind-mill and tank for supplying the house with an ample amount of water. Mr. and Mrs. H— have invited us several times to visit them, so on Tuesday, the 5th, we mounted our fiery steeds (donkeys) and accompanied them home. (They had been here two or three days.) The distance is about ten miles and directly north. We were three and a half hours in going and arrived just after sunset. The village lies on a ridge, rather high, and one can from various points, see the Mediterranean Sea and portions of the plain and beach. We spent two nights, coming home the morning of the third day, having enjoyed the country with its birds and its freshness and quiet very much. In the mission grounds are three small groups of the umbrella pine, which grows now chiefly in the Lebanon, but with a little care would grow in any of these hills. There are also plums, peaches, apricots, almonds, English walnuts, olives, pears, etc. Of course most of the trees are comparatively young, but they are thrifty and many of them bear well.

The reason that the natives do not plant more trees is the ruinous rate of taxation which the government imposes on anything that bears a crop. The people of Ramallah have been paying a road tax for a long time in order to have a good road made into Jerusalem, but the money disappears and the same dreadful, stony path remains just as it was sixteen years ago when I first went over it; and quite likely as it has been for hundreds of years. If you could see it you would wonder how animals escaped with unbroken legs.

Two weeks ago we went with Mrs. D— wife of the English Consul, and nine others, to Aetas, one of the sites suggested for Emmaus. It is two or three miles south of Bethlehem. We drove to Solomon's Pool, on the road to Hebron, and walked from there. It took us about three quarters of an hour to reach the spot where we were to lunch. We found a large spreading fig tree, large enough for us all to find a place and spread our table-cloth beside. Tea made over an alcohol lamp refreshed some of us. We had to leave this delightful spot long before we wished in order to walk back to the carriage. On the way home we stopped at Mae Elias, a convent about half way between Bethlehem and Jerusalem, where some other friends had come and prepared tea and cake. The view from this convent was particularly fine and the air was very fresh and cool. On setting our faces homeward we found a young Englishman out for a spin on his wheel, and he escorted us home, though I must say that at times he was out of sight, as he could go much faster than our horses. There are, perhaps, ten bicycles in Jerusalem. The roads are not first class for that amusement. Yesterday afternoon we went to tea with some Americans who have been here many years.

A few weeks ago locusts appeared, and it was thought they might do much damage, but they disappeared very soon, and although they ate some tender things like cucumbers and melons, the injury was small. They were rather small, so possibly their destructive ability was not fully developed. Watermelons are now in their prime, and the yellow melons also; plums, figs and apricots are still abundant.

Many public improvements are being planned for the coming of the German Emperor, but as usual the public treasury is empty, so what will actually be accomplished, I do not know. Nearly all the decided benefits to the public are the result of Imperial or semi-Imperial visitations. The people here wish they occurred oftener, that is, those who do not have to pay increased taxes on that account.

The writer of the following letter, Miss Maria H. Dow formerly resided in Andover and will be remembered by many here when she was connected with Miss O. W. Neal in the millinery business. She gives a very interesting account of a trip on a Leyland line cattle ship.

EDITOR EXETER NEWS-LETTER—I gave my friends strictly to understand when I started on this trip abroad, that I would not waste my time writing letters, but I am enjoying every moment of the voyage so much that I want others to share the pleasure with me, as they certainly would had I the gift of making them see these wonderful things with my eyes. A literary friend kindly loaned me her fountain pen to use in my travels. Let us hope that some dripping of her talent, inadvertently left in it, may ooze through its point and produce results to which my unassisted brain is unequal.

line pier at Boston at noon of July 8. We sailed out of the harbor, waving our adieu to the many friends who had come to bid us good bye, and watched their answering signals till distance hid them from our view.

The weather was perfect, with a cloudless sky and a smooth sea, and the cool breeze as our steady steamer moved steadily over the water, was most refreshing after the intense heat we had just experienced. We considered ourselves fortunate—and now that we are nearing the end of our voyage, we see no reason to change our opinion—in being able to secure passage on one of the largest steamers of the Leyland line. It is only about three years since they began to carry passengers on their cattle steamers, of which this is one of the largest, the Armenian, on which our party have engaged passage to the Mediterranean, being of the same size as this;—but they have become so popular that it is necessary to engage a berth months before hand, or run the risk of losing the chance.

The printed list on this trip numbers fifty-one passengers, including four infants under four years of age, all of one family. Probably some of the luxuries of some of the palatial passenger steamers of other lines are missing, but we have every needed comfort, and any lack of style is more than counterbalanced by the superior steadiness of the boat. Some of our fellow-passengers have crossed the common remark among them: "I never was on so steady a boat." There has been scarcely any seasickness on board. Possibly I might, for a consideration, furnish the Brush company with a testimonial in favor of their "Elkex Prophylactic," which they claim is "An Unfailing Remedy for Seasickness," and which we have all taken faithfully according to directions, beginning twenty-four hours before sailing, but my candid opinion is that with these favorite skies and this smooth sea, I should have escaped the malady without it. I certainly can say nothing against it, and some of these experienced travellers speak emphatically in favor of it, so we shall probably fortify ourselves against any adverse freaks of wind and wave on the return trip by again using it as a preventive.

Our staterooms are commodious and convenient, as sleeping quarters, but rather crowded, as each one has four occupants. (Some of the staterooms are arranged for two.) As we began to unpack our steamer trunks, the remark of the girl who wrote home from the boarding school that she had a place for everything and everything in its place, and it was the top bureau drawer came forcibly to mind. However, as a friend of ours used to say, "We can get along with very little room if we only keep good natured, and a more jolly party than we are it would be hard to find."

Of course the first thing we did after we were out of sight of land was to explore the boat which was to be our home for ten days. It measures 555 feet from stem to stern,—and here let me state that all facts and figures that require exactness will be verified by the efficient and competent conductor of our party, who is remarkable for his accuracy—as our Captain Shepard would say, and whose hobby is "Facts, sir, facts!" though in no other respect does our genial friend resemble the Graceland of one of our stories.

In the hold are 840 cattle, shipped by the Swift company of Chicago. They look very comfortable and chew their cud as contentedly as if they were in their stable at home. They are in charge of 27 men—18 of them inexperienced hands—several of whom are boys who in this way earn their passage. They are a merry set of fellows and seem to take kindly to their work, though they do not report their food and sleeping accommodations as first-class. But they do not object to "roughing it," and they will have little or nothing to do on the homeward trip. Some of them are newspaper correspondents, and add materially to their income by writing. There are some fine singers among them, and they sometimes gather on the lower deck and sing college songs as they lounge at the original song, which the young gentlemen of our party induced them to let him copy, runs thus, to the tune of "Marching through Georgia."

"O, the cattle are the meanest beasts For eatin' of the hay,
We feed 'em 'bout a thousand bales Most every other day,
With loads of corn and water In a very generous way,
As we go sailing on the ocean.

Chorus.

Hurrah! Hooray! Hurrah for Paddy Shee!
Hurrah! Hooray! for Tommy Dolan too,
Hurrah! for Jack McGovern and the others of the crew,
As we go sailing on the ocean!

If any of your readers would be satisfied to substitute an other adjective (not profane) for "meanest," it might possibly be more strictly in accordance with the original.

We visited the refrigerating machine which cools the storage rooms in which are 3500 quarters and 1100 cases of beef. About two-thirds of it belongs to the Swift company and one-third to the Hammond company of Chicago—the latter company being the first to ship beef across. I should be glad to be able to give a scientific description of the machine and its workings as was given to me, but my education in chemistry is too deficient to enable me to do so and I can only speak of the results as I saw the pipes coated with frost half an inch thick, glistening in the electric light.

One evening we descended into the depths of the huge monster that carries us and saw its inner workings. Three long flights of stairs down from the decks we saw the eighteen fiery furnaces that are being constantly fed to keep this ravenous creature in working order. The stokers have a hard life of it. Such extreme heat alone, without the exertion required in the constant shoveling of coal, must shorten a man's life. No wonder that sometimes reason gives way and the poor creatures throw themselves overboard in their delirium. I do not think, though, that any such tragedy has occurred on the ships of the Leyland line. We saw the mighty engines, and entering a long, narrow tunnel, we went to the stern, and saw all the way the revolving shaft which turns the single screw. Each revolution of the screw is recorded by an indicator. We shuddered as we passed the place where one of the stokers caught his hand in the revolving shaft the second day out, and injured it so severely that three fingers had to be amputated; and he may have to lose his whole hand. A subscription has been taken up for him among the passengers and a generous sum of money was collected. The temperature of these lower regions is extremely high.

I have not begun to tell of all the interesting things we have seen and heard, but this too long a letter already as I will close hoping that this imperfect account of my experience may encourage some of my fair readers to "go and do likewise."

How Cadet Boardman Died.

Mrs. Boardman, the mother of Cadet Boardman, has received a letter from a classmate of her son, who was with him on the Amphitrite, Cadet Foley. He writes of the details of the wounding of Cadet Boardman.

As previously stated the fatal accident occurred at the St. Juan light-house. This had been taken possession of by United States forces and had been attacked by a strong Spanish force. Boardman was one of the volunteers who went ashore to aid in repelling the enemy. He was in command of squad deployed as skirmishers flanking the light house, where nine frightened women had taken refuge. The enemy was attacked and were driven off with loss. Boardman and his little squad pursued them as far as it was safe for so small a force to go, and returned flushed and excited by their victory.

So intense was the heat that equipments were thrown aside. Some one threw a belt in which was a revolver, to the floor within three feet of where the young cadet was standing. The pistol was discharged and the fatal bullet struck Boardman in the thigh, passing through the bowels and striking the hip bone, by which it was deflected, taking an upward course. Everything was done to save the man, but he could be done. He was taken on board his ship and the best surgeons in the fleet summoned, but it was evident that the wound was mortal. Notwithstanding his great suffering the young hero lived for four days and toward the end was free from pain and passed away peacefully.

The noble nature of this brave young sailor is shown by his letter to his mother, written after he was shot, a copy of which is now in her possession. It was written to reassure the loved ones at home, and to save them anxiety should the news reach them that he had been wounded. It is brief and speaks of the skirmish at the light-house, saying that he received a slight wound, but would be all right the next day.

Cadet Foley will bring the precious letter to his comrade's mother and place it in her hands. As has already been stated the body of Cadet Boardman was buried on the Isle of Polonium, off the extreme eastern end of Porto Rico, and the grave properly marked. It is stated that Dr. Chamberlain of this city will go south and return with the remains.

Children's Outing.

The children of the Home and Nursery, No. 125 Methuen street, with others, to the number of 60, had an outing at the Pines, Groveland, Tuesday. The ride was given by the Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill electric railroad, through the kindness of the superintendent, Mr. Morton, and Director Bruce.

At the Pines a sumptuous dinner was served the little ones and their attendants, and the freedom of the grounds given them for the day by the Hon. Mr. Bruce. Messrs. Bruce and Morton have for several years given the children of the Home and their friends an annual excursion of the line of their road, this being one of the many ways these gentlemen have of displaying in a practical manner their generous dispositions with which they are so richly possessed. The well known firm of Reid & Hughes added much to the pleasure of the occasion by beautifully decorating the car. Fruit, cake, and nuts were bountifully supplied by several of our well known business men and firms. The ladies in charge were Mrs. E. P. Poor, Mrs. A. B. Bruce, Mrs. Geo. W. Hillis, Mrs. William Thomas, Mrs. Charles Foster, Mrs. Skillings, the matron, Miss Sinnott, Miss Swift, Miss Allen.

Chickamauga Souve Jr.

Mrs. W. W. Brown of State street recently received a letter from her son, Private Ralph Brown of Co. L, now at Chickamauga in which was a very dainty and attractive souvenir in the form of a badge. It consisted of a red satin ribbon about two inches and a half long bearing the inscription:

U. S. Volunteers,
Camp Dalton,
Chickamauga Park,
1898.

From this was hung a gold medal about the size of a one dollar gold piece, on one side of which was engraved the picture of the battleship Maine, and the watchword, "Remember the Maine," while on the other side was the Lord's prayer which can be clearly read, although very small. The whole is suspended from a Cuban flag pin. He also sent a solid silver gold-lined spoon with the name engraved on the bowl. He said that the most of the boys were doing well, only three being in the hospital, but that all were very anxious to come home.

Chemists in Town.

About seventy-five members of the American Chemical society visited the mills Wednesday. They are classified section C of the American association for the advancement of science which is holding a convention in Boston this week.

The men come from all over the country and a great many of them had never seen a large cotton mill. The Pacific mill was visited this forenoon and all showed great interest in what they saw. The party was conducted through the mill by Chemist John Alden of the Pacific.

The members of the party dined at the Franklin house at noon. In the afternoon the Arlington mill was visited also the Russell paper mill and the experiment station.

Brakeman Killed.

Joseph Dionne, a freight brakeman on the Boston & Maine, was killed near the Merrimack street crossing Monday night at about 8.50 o'clock.

Dionne was engaged in coupling cars and it is supposed in some way caught his foot and was run over. His head was badly crushed. His body was found by Conductor Eugene McGrath as he was passing with a lantern in his hand. He immediately notified the police and the body was taken to Colby's undertaking rooms. Dionne resided at 22 Franklin street. He was unmarried and leaves one sister.

Want to Be Mayor.

Democratic candidates for mayor are numerous. Some of those who are mentioned as aspirants for the office are: Josephus J. P. S. Mahoney, Caleb Saunders, Paul Hannagan, John P. Kane and Dr. John A. Magee.

Gilman-Kirkwood.

The residence of Mrs. Elizabeth Kirkwood, 43 Fulton street, was the scene of a pretty home wedding Wednesday evening. Her daughter, Agnes May Kirkwood, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Edward William Gilman. The wedding ceremony took place in the parlor which was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowers. Rev. G. M. Currier performed the wedding ceremony. Edmund G. White was best man, and Miss Sarah Stoney was bridesmaid.

The bride clad in white muslin and carrying a bouquet of brides' roses presented a charming picture. To Improve Canal Street.

It is now almost a settled fact that Canal street is to be macadamized. It has been in wretched shape for some time and Mayor Eaton has interested himself in its improvement. It is a well known fact that the street is controlled by the Essex company and the manufacturing corporations on the south side of the canal. His honor has talked with the gentlemen who manage these corporations and they have agreed that something needed to be done.

All they ask of the city is to furnish the profile and establish the grade and then they will go ahead with the work. The street is one used very much by the general public. The result is very gratifying to the mayor who has been very much interested in the improvement of the street, and this is distinctly in the line with other improvements which he hopes to realize in the thoroughfares of the city.

PIANOS

Few people have the courage to buy a cheap piano after carefully examining a really fine one. A pretty casing is often designed to sell a poor musical instrument. These well known makes combine beauty outside and worth within. Among the first-class ones these three are the most popular—not low priced and inferior, but cheap for their superior quality. These pianos can be purchased from $300 to $400, according to size and case—quality just the same. We will rent you one of these famous instruments for three months delivered right in your home for $15. Medium grade pianos for $12. Cheap pianos for $10. If you decide the piano is all we claim for it and decide to purchase, the rent will be allowed as payment on your instrument.

Scrofula, a Vile Inheritance.

Scrofula is the most obstinate of blood troubles, and is often the result of an inherited taint in the blood. S. S. S. is the only remedy which goes deep enough to reach Scrofula; it forces out every trace of the disease, and cures the worst cases.

My son, Charlie, was afflicted from infancy with Scrofula, and he suffered so that it was impossible to dress him for three years. His head and body were a mass of sores, and his eyesight also became affected. No treatment was spared that we thought would relieve him, but he grew worse until his condition was indeed pitiable. I had almost despaired of his ever being cured, when by the advice of a friend we gave him S. S. S. (Swift's Specific). A decided improvement was the result, and after he had taken a dozen bottles, no one who knew of his former dreadful condition would have recognized him. All the sores on his body have healed, his skin is perfectly clear and smooth, and he has been restored to perfect health.

For real blood troubles it is a waste of time to expect a cure from the doctors. Blood diseases are beyond their skill. Swift's Specific, reaches all deep-seated cases which other remedies have no effect upon. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed purely vegetable, and contains no potash, mercury, or other mineral.

His fall was some 10 or 12 feet, and it is almost a miracle that no bones were broken. Internal injuries however are feared and it will be some time before he will again be able to be out.

COUNTY NOTES.

Daniel Bond of Georgetown has a white woodchuck which he will carry to the Essex county fair next month.

The plant at Pigeon cove, Gloucester, for extracting gold from the sea, will probably be moved south.

A big summer hotel will be constructed at Magnolia. It will be finished for next season.

John Waldron of Lynn fell from an electric trolley, sustaining a fracture of the right ankle.

Sneak thieves entered the home of Sadie Hamel in Haverhill and after thoroughly ransacking the house, got away with a roll of bills amounting to $150.

Six Chinamen were fined $10 in the police court in Haverhill yesterday morning for gambling Sunday. They were captured in a cellar thickly padded to keep the sound from reaching the street.

Fred Story of Magnolia has returned from Klondike to his home on account of illness. The Klondike expedition of which he was a member, he thinks, is about 800 miles up one of the rivers and has probably struck paying gold.

A West Newbury man says it would be unwise for any burglariously-inclined individuals to tackle West Newbury for sometime to come. Since the Leary robbery the demand for shotguns and pistols has increased wonderfully, and not a house remained now in the town where the occupants had not one or more deadly weapons. One neighbor of his had two guns and revolvers constantly loaded for bear.

NOT DUE TO FOUL PLAY.

LYNN, Aug. 22—The body of a woman found off Nahant yesterday had not been identified up to a late hour this afternoon. If no one claims it before Tuesday an autopsy will be held. While there are marks on the face that might have been due to foul play, the medical examiner is inclined to think that death was due to drowning.

E. T. Choate of Newburyport has been appointed deputy over district 37, Knights of Pythias.

WERE NEARLY SWAMPED.

A LITTLE PAINT WORKS WONDERS

"Nature's freshness intensifies man's skillfulness," which only means in this case that at this time of year nature will do the square thing by you, in the adorning line, if you will apply a little skill along with a large order of paint on some of your buildings which look just a trifle dingy in the summer sunshine now. Responded with Alacrity.

The alarm of fire shortly before eight o'clock Friday evening appears to have been due to a misunderstanding between the proprietor of Wills' boarding-house and Officer Leighton who was instrumental in calling out the department. As near as could be learned a house girl discovered that a broken chimney from a lighted lamp had allowed the flame to ignite the oil on the outside of the lamp and communicate with the papers on the small table on which the lamp stood. She notified the boarders and they ascended to the chamber at the head of the front stairs and in a few minutes succeeded in extinguishing the fire, only trifling damage resulting. Officer Leighton's story was in substance that he saw smoke pouring from the room and flames inside and thinking that the matter was sufficiently serious sent a boy for the fire department. The issue between Proprietor Wills and Officer Leighton is that the former told the latter not to give an alarm, and the officer claims he was not told until after the boy had been sent for the apparatus. In any event the fire was out when the machine with the usual following of spirited townspeople arrived. This is the second time that the department has been called to the same house. Happily, however, neither case was attended with serious results.

Arno P. Ellis Injured.

Tuesday forenoon Arno P. Ellis, the well known wheelwright of Main Street, was quite painfully injured on the Duck bridge, by being thrown from his wagon. He was taken to the general hospital. His wagon collided with an electric repair wagon which struck him to the floor of the bridge. He received a cut over his left eye and was rendered unconscious. The horse was injured in the collision, the harness was broken, as were also both shafts of the wagon. A few years ago Mr. Ellis had both of his legs broken by being struck by the gates over the spur tracks on Union Street. He was on his way to Lawrence when the accident happened and was alone. The patrol wagon was summoned and the injured man was conveyed to the hospital by the order of Dr. Sargent. Officer Kimball notified Mrs. Ellis of the accident. He was carried home early in the afternoon, and is now as comfortable as possible.

Joseph Battles returned Saturday from a five weeks' yachting cruise along the north shore between Nahant and Portsmouth harbor. Mr. Battles reports having encountered only seven days of pleasant weather during the time he was absent.

Misses Mary and Lena Baldwin are expected home from Nantucket within a few days. A slight improvement is noticed, it is reported, in the condition of E. A. Baldwin, but it is understood that he will remain near the south shore some time longer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Apthorp are spending the August days in Hunt Cottage, Nahant. The dwelling commands a far reaching view and is located on the Marginal road quite near old ocean and within easy distance of Swampscott and other fashionable places along the North Shore.

Report from the city hospital concerning the condition of Harry Cunningham is that he had a comfortable week. Regarding the chances of saving the injured arm Dr. Chamberlain, the surgeon in charge, said that while he could not say positively, yet he thought the arm could be saved.

The stump of the old buttonwood tree recently felled on the Kittredge farm was drawn to Stevens upper pond and deposited in the water near the archway, yesterday. It took a team of four horses to draw the huge stump to the location mentioned. With the roots shorn close to the trunk it measured 12 feet in diameter.

The Cochichewick "hand tub" while responding to the alarm of fire given from the Wills boarding house, Friday night, was injured by the breaking of the pole to which the horses were attached. The accident happened on the hill just above the high school and it was a wonder that the machine did not come in contact with an electric car.

District Attorney Oliver Stevens of Suffolk County has returned to his summer residence at Marblehead from a trip south to assist in bringing Col. Eskridge to the Massachusetts General Hospital, where he is now under treatment for a wound received from a Spanish bullet, while serving his country.

ANDOVER 32, BUNTING 22.

Last Saturday afternoon the Buntings of Lowell fell victims to Andover for the second time this season although the game was close and the scores small. Bunting batted first and Bruce bowled first, the visitors crack batsman with the first ball of the game. Saunders continued the havoc and all the visitors were out for 22 runs. Patrick alone showing any confidence with the bowling. Saunders and Bruce's work with the ball was exceedingly brilliant. The former taking six wickets for only two runs.

Small as the visitors' total was the home team seemed unlikely to reach it. Haddon batted confidently for a time when he was given out caught on an appeal which the umpire took for leg before wicket. At this juncture Burns was no-balled by the Andover umpire for deliberately throwing the ball instead of bowling. He changed end and receiving the protection of his own umpire threw every ball. Wickets fell rapidly but Craik and McDermitt came to the rescue and won the game for the home team. Hird of the Lowell bowled splendidly. H. Saunders for Andover fielded well. The wicket keeping of Midgley for the visitors was extremely poor.

FIRST ON THE KLONDIKE

THE JOSEPH LADUE

GOLD MINING AND DEVELOPMENT COMPANY OF YUKON.

PRICE OF SHARES TO BE ADVANCED AUGUST 31, 1898.

Mr. Joseph Ladue, the pioneer of the Klondike, and founder of Dawson City, aided by some of the most conservative and successful financiers of New York, is operating the strongest company yet formed for mining and trading in the Yukon gold fields.

To this Company he has transferred placer claims on Hunter and Gold Bottom Creeks, the "Marguerite" Quartz Mine, his Saw Mill, his Timber Lease, that virtually monopolizes the saw timber on the Klondike, and large holdings of Choice Town Lots in Dawson City. The Company also owns the S. S. "Morgan City" now earning $30,000 per month, and has shipped up the Yukon several hundred tons of merchandise, for trade, upon which a very large profit is assured. The U. S. Government reports certify that the saw mill produces about two million feet of lumber in the open season, sales price of which is from $140 to $240 per 1,000 feet according to class.

CAPITAL OF THE COMPANY.

Preferred Stock, 65 cumulative,	$1,000,000
Common Stock,	4,000,000
Total Capital, par value, $10 per share,	$5,000,000

The preferred stock has a first lien on earnings for its dividend, and on the assets of the Company for its par value, and after all the stock of the Company has received 6 per cent, the surplus earnings are shared pro rata by the preferred and common stock.

Thus the preferred stock practically offers the safeguards and advantages of a first mortgage bond, coupled with an earning capacity as great as that of the common stock.

The undersigned has obtained a short option on a block of this preferred stock which he now offers at par, $10.00 per share. This option terminates August 31st, 1898, after which the price of the preferred stock will be advanced by the Company to $12.50 per share.

This is the last opportunity to get the preferred stock at par, and in time to participate in the autumn dividend. Shares will be allotted in the order subscriptions are received.

Send for map of Dawson, and data respecting Klondike.

CHARLES A. SAWYER, 230 WASHINGTON ST. BOSTON.

FLYING AND CRAWLING THINGS

Now that hot weather is at hand we are going to call your attention to the fact that flies, bugs and mosquitoes will make their appearance in force.

Flies are persistent creatures. No matter how many screens you have up they will get in. Better buy our poison or sticky fly paper. We have both kinds—put up in convenient forms. One sheet of poison or two of sticky for 5c.

Now for bugs. Norwood's Insect Liquid is death to bugs, roaches, mosquitoes, buffalo bugs, and all other such pests. Will not injure the most delicate fabrics. One bottle 25c.

Did you ever sit in a hammock? What a foolish question to ask, of course you have, but you'll never know what pure comfort is until you try one of our $3.25 hammocks.

To be sure we have cheaper ones all the way from $1 up.

This is hammock weather with a vengeance and, well, never mind, "a word to the wise is sufficient."
